A Charter was planned ahead as well as a day of filming for a kids program by a film Company. Next on the agenda was Kathmandu for their summer fashion shoot and lastly six Americans from Operation Deep Freeze spending four hours on the water in bright sunshine and around 12 knots of N/E breeze. So you see Oyster has no time to relax in her old age, and all the better for it.

Many thanks to Mike Rossouw for providing the update on Oyster from her home in Christchurch.

NEWS & VIEWS from our fleet...

Lots to do for the 109 year old Oyster of the South.....

The Classic Yacht 'Oyster' has proven that a classic yacht is just like a good whiskey, if it's made well she will last the distance and provide enjoyment to many, long after her makers have passed.

Oyster was recently taken out of the water for a four year survey, passing with flying colours. The surveyor noted that the builder knew what he was doing when it was built; there was no rot or soft spots.

With the regular maintenance required for any classic, repainting the topsides and new antifouling, she was set to make good for her busy schedule come Monday morning.
